I n R E C O G N I T I O N

With the most widespread and destructive war in history raging, many students and alumni of Tennessee Wesleyan College have answered the call to serve in the armed service of their country. To these men and women, we dedicate the 1943 Nocatula.

It is fitting and proper that we should do this, because never before in history have so many owed so much to a group as is now representing the United States in the fight for liberty and justice the world over.

Wherever you are—whether on land, on sea or in the air—we salute you, Wesleyan men and women, who as soldiers, sailors, airmen, nurses, WAACS or WAVES, are defending the democratic way of life in the true spirit of service which Wesleyan has taught you.

A Message from the President

Greetings to All Seniors:

Accept my felicitations upon the successful completion of this segment of your life's career. I have watched your progress with interest, probably more than you may have realized. I shall continue to follow your movements with interest and with confident hope that they may be ever upward. You are entering into manhood and womanhood at a critical period in the world's history. What an opportunity is yours to help shape the life of our own and other nations! May you ever avail yourself of the divine guidance and strength that is yours for the asking.

Sincerely,

James L. Robb,

President.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 13.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office for National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people, and the UK Government has set out a strategy for the 21st century in the White Paper on Ageing Better: The Challenge of the 21st Century (Department of Health 1999). This strategy is based on the concept of 'active ageing', which is defined as 'the process of optimising opportunities for health, participation in society, and security in old age' (Department of Health 1999).

The White Paper also sets out a number of key objectives for the 21st century, including: to ensure that older people are able to live independently and actively; to ensure that older people are able to participate in society; to ensure that older people are able to access the services and support they need; and to ensure that older people are able to live in a secure and safe environment. These objectives are reflected in the research project described in this paper.

The research project was funded by the UK Department of Health, and was part of a larger programme of research on ageing and health. The project was led by Professor John A. Roberts, and was carried out by a team of researchers from the University of Liverpool and the University of Manchester. The project was designed to explore the experiences of older people in the UK, and to identify the factors that influence their health and well-being.

The research project was carried out in two phases. The first phase was a qualitative study, which involved conducting interviews with older people in their own homes. The second phase was a quantitative study, which involved conducting a survey of older people in the UK. The results of the research project are presented in this paper.
